N.Y. Federation Seeks To Raise 20 Millions

The Federation of Jewish Philanthropies of New York will seek to raise $20,000,000 in the next three months for the maintenance of 116 hospitals, health and social service agencies in the metropolitan area, it was announced by Ralph E. Samuel, president, at a press conference in his office, 71 West Forty-seventh Street. The fund-raising campaign extending through December, will be started officially on Monday night, at Temple Emanu-El, 1 East Sixty-fifth Street, where General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower will be the principal speaker.

The amount sought is the largest the Federation has attempted to raise for maintenance of its institutions in its thirty-three-year history. Last year the federation's fund-raising goal was $50,500,000 but $34,000,000 of this sum was for the organization's building fund, and $16,500,000 for maintenance.

In last year's campaign the federation collected $26,000,000, of which $14,000,000 was for maintenance and $11,000,000 for building and modernization. The build- fund now has $24,000,000, of more than half is already for projects under way started.

Most overy and leadership vice techniques are private agencies, he is getting off the defensive and taking the offensive," Mr. Samuel said. He said the $20,000,000 sought would pay about half the cost of operating the institutions, with the balance coming from fees by patients, as in the case of those with private rooms in hospitals, and from some municipal and state fees for various services.

Mr. Samuels listed the following reasons why the Federation had to seek the largest maintenance sum in its history: rising costs; the incurring of additional maintenance costs as new buildings are completed or old ones enlarged, the recently established practice of hiring full-time medical and surgical personnel for hospitals, which is expected to cost $1,000,000, and to end waiting lists of persons who require aid, for example a child from a broken home, but who is neglected because the agency which should care for the child lacks money.

Emphasizing the matter of waiting lists, Mr. Samuel said that an estimated $4,000,000 would be used this year to eliminate them.

Citing examples of waiting lists, Mr. Samuels noted that in the field of family service, families must wait for from one to nine months before treatment can begin because of lack of trained personnel.

Suggests Group Plan For Investors In Israel

In connection with Israel's current intensified drive for foreign private investment capital, the rules which the small American capitalist can play in the new Jewish State are outlined in the latest issue of Economic Horizons, monthly publication of the Economic Department of the Jewish Agency for Palestine. Opportunities for the small investor, according to the publication, range from the purchase of Israel securities for as low as $10 per share, to the actual opening in Israel of a small self-operated workshop which, under special circumstances, can cost as little as $10,000 cash, including transportation and housing for the investor and his family.

An article, prepared by P. Bernard Nortman of the Jewish Agency staff, emphasizes that such low-cost enterprises are only possible in rural communities and where the investor is prepared to bring his own machinery and be his own operator. For a normal small factory for which labor must be hired and an urban location is advisable, a minimum of $40,000 to $50,000 is required, provided the investor is experienced in the business. A recent survey of 33 small self-operated workshops in the Haifa area, according to the article, shows that each shop contained about $7,200 worth of machinery and that an average of $3,000 per shop was spent in preparation for production. About 70 per cent of all equipment was brought from abroad by the immigrant, while 30 per cent was purchased locally. These costs are exclusive of housing and other personal expenses which must be met by a new settler in Israel.

"From many points of view," the article states, "those who wish to settle in Israel will find it advisable to form a group comprising Americans, Israelis or both. A practical solution is the

FAMED SCIENTIST TO USE AWARD IN RESEARCH

Dr. Selman A. Waksman, Rutgers University's famed microbiologist, has been named to receive the 1950 Charles Mickle Fellowship by the faculty of medicine of the University of Toronto.

Dr. Waksman is the thirtieth winner of the fellowship, which is accompanied by a cash award of $500. Past winners include Dr. Harvey Cushing, neurological surgeon; Dr. Charles H. Best, co-discoverer of insulin, and Dr. Herbert M. Evans, who charted the forty-eight chromosomes in man. Dr. Waksman said he would use the money to further his research in microbiology, the science to which he has devoted more than thirty years of study.

Barred From U.S., Refugees Now Get Entry Visas

The American Consul in Bremen issued United States entry visas to the first family in the group of 106 European Jewish refugees who reached the U. S. from Shanghai last May only to be returned to Germany because of immigration law technicalities, Joint Distribution Committee headquarters in New York have been advised. The visa-issuance ceremony came during the recent ten-day High Holy Day period. First to receive their visas were Dr. and Mrs. Hugo Lewinsohn, German Jews who ... refugees from Manila. Dr. Lewinsohn's two sons and two sisters, plus Mrs. Lewinsohn's 83-year-old mother, reached the U. S. from Shanghai two years ago and are living in New York City.

All of the 106 Shanghai refugees, who originally arrived in New York on July 1, are hoping for visas under the revised DP Act. Most have close relatives already in the U.S. The issuance of visas to the Lewinsohn family has been a sign of encouragement to other members of the group eligible for U.S. immigration and also to some 290 Shanghai Jewish refugees currently en route to Germany from China aboard the SS Anna Salen, which left Tientsin in the middle of September.

The International Refugee Organization, the Joint Distribution Committee, major American agency aiding distressed Jews aboard, and the United Service for New Americans are cooperating on arrangements for the Lewinsohn family's return to the United States. Basic care and maintenance in Germany, plus transportation costs, are the responsibility of the IRO. JDC provides extensive supplementary welfare aid for the refugees with funds provided by the United Jewish Appeal, and assists in their processing for emigration.

Denial of entry to the Shanghai group while they waited on Ellis Island last June, aroused both official and popular sentiment in the United States. It came as the culmination of a decade-long flight from persecution which carried the refugees completely around the world. Fleeing Nazi persecution in Europe, the refugees were part of a group of 20,000 Jews who found haven in Shanghai just before the outbreak of World War II. But before long they were hunted down again, this time by Japanese troops who captured Shanghai early in 1942 and forced them to live behind barbed wire in the Hongkew Ghetto in that city.

Throughout the war JDC kept the refugee group alive by smuggling in food, clothing, medicines and cash. This emergency relief program was carried out with the full approval of the U. S. State, Treasury and War Departments. After V-J Day, JDC and UNRRA, and later its successor, the International Refugee Organization, began the task of finding permanent homelands for the many Shanghai refugees. Most of them had been resettled when the Chinese Communists captured Shanghai and the city changed hands again.

Renewed efforts were made to evacuate the remaining refugees after the Communists took Shanghai. An IRO-chartered steamer brought the 106 refugees from Shanghai to San Francisco and a sealed train carried the group across the country. Legal technicalities, however, prevented their remaining in the U. S. as immigrants under the DP Act. The group was returned to Germany and told to apply for emigration into the U. S. from there.

MORGENTHAU TO TOUR ISRAEL

Henry Morgenthau Jr., general chairman of the United Jewish Appeal, sailed for Israel aboard the Ile de France for a meeting with Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion, which will be devoted to a discussion of Israels economic and financial needs. After his meeting with Israeli officials, Mr. Morgenthau will tour various parts of the country, particularly areas where new immigrants are being established with the aid of the Appeal.

During his ten-day visit, the Appeal's chairman will be inducted as chairman of the board of governors of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, a post once held by Dr. Chaim Weizmann. Mr. Morgenthau is scheduled to return in time to report to and participate in a national planning conference for Israel, which will be held in Washington the latter part of October.

Merge U.S. And British Banking In Israel

"Combination of American and British banking activities in Israel is now being completed," stated Dr. Kurt Grunwald, a leading Israel economist now in the United States, referring to the merger of the Israel banking interest of an American enterprise, the Palestine Economic Corporation, ... Ltd. which was established and financed in Great Britain. This is an important development in Israel banking, Dr. Grunwald stressed, "as it results in a flexible system in which the credit facilities of the entire group can be utilized to the best advantage of the national economy."

He pointed out that Israel, a nation with a population of slightly more than one million, has 27 banks of which six, including the three in this group, control about 80% of the entire deposits in the country. "The Palestine Economic Corporation, which has done so much to bring American methods to Israel and has pioneered in so many varied fields of endeavor, is now setting an example to other Israel bankers. It is demonstrating how the integration of a number of banks can lead to an increased efficiency of operations and improved service," he said.

This new concern is known as the Palestine Corporation Ltd., in which the Palestine Economic Corporation has a majority interest. It consists of three banks: the Palestine Corporation Ltd., which specializes in commercial banking, the Central Bank of Cooperative Institutions in Palestine Ltd., which services the cooperative sector of the Israel economy and finances small business, and the Mortgage & Savings Bank Ltd., which concentrates on stimulating popular housing through mortgage loans and has a savings department. The Palestine Corporation Ltd. has wide connections in British financial circles and maintains an office in London. The other two banks — which were developed by the Palestine Economic Corporation — have contacts in American financial spheres. Sir Robert Valey-Cohen, managing director of Shell Transport and Trading Co. Ltd. of Great Britain; and Robert Szold, chairman of the Board of the Palestine Economic Corporation, are chairman and deputy chairman of the enlarged Palestine Corporation Ltd.

Dr. Grunwald, who is manager of the Jerusalem Branch of the Palestine Corporation, said that all banking services common in the United States are available in Israel through these three banks. Of particular interest to Americans owning property in Israel is the real estate management department of the Mortgage & Savings Bank, which was established to administer such property for ab-

Israeli Cabinet Increases Clothing Rations

The Israel Cabinet has voted to increase ration points for clothing and otherwise ease the strict rationing program. In response to recommendations of a special advisory committee on clothing, footwear, and textile rationing, the Cabinet raised the annual clothing point allotment from 85 to 100, including the 10 summer clothing points, a net increase of five points. It also provided for an additional coupon for half-sole repair of one pair of shoes per person and guaranteed raw materials to manufacturers for the implementation of the rationing program.

The Cabinet voted new measures against the black market, control over the quality of manufacturers, regular publication of up-to-date lists of rationed items, temporary arrangements in regard to sales before publication of an order, labelling of point value in addition to the price of goods displayed in shops, equalization of point value of woven goods made of locally manufactured thread with the value of such goods made of imported thread, and encouragement of the use of non-leather materials for shoe repair.

The Cabinet also decided to set up public advisory committees on clothing and footwear rationing and on production and export within a fortnight. At future meetings, the Cabinet will also discuss a number of other questions raised by the advisory committee, including the marketing of defective goods in possession of manufacturers and merchants, use of waste textiles and domestic wool, arrangements for the exchange of second-hand clothing or giving points in return for second-hand clothing, and special arrangements in regard to orthopedic shoe requirements infants needs.

Rabbi's Widow Helped To Transfer Yeshiva To U.S.

Mrs. Ida Fischel Margolies, widow of the Rev. Moses S. Margolies, who was dean of Orthodox rabbis in North America, died in her home at 150 East Ninety-third Street, New York, after a brief illness. She was 88 years old.

Mrs. Margolies' lifelong concern with problems of Jewish education and Zionism was hardly less intense than that of Rabbi Margolies, who was her second husband, whose death in 1935, was mourned by Jewish leaders throughout the world. Born in Kovno, Lithuania, she was married to Joseph M. Braz in June, 1884. Two years later the couple came to the U.S., accompanied by Mrs. Margolies' mother. Mr. Braz died in 1924.

Previously Mrs. Margolies had maintained a strong interest in the cause of Zionism and held memberships in many Jewish organizations in New York. On March 23, 1927, she was married to Rabbi Margolies.

During the years that her second husband headed the Union of Orthodox Rabbis of the United States and Canada and participated in the founding of what is now Yeshiva University, Mrs. Margolies took a prominent part in the United Yeshivas Foundation, the United Aged Home, Bnai Brith and the Mizrachi Woman's Organization of America.

She accompanied Rabbi Margolies on several trips to Palestine during the Thirties, and also traveled extensively in Europe. Mrs. Margolies was ... in fostering the work of th... Rath Hayim of Jeru... East Broadway, and ... pre-

Man Of Great Age Is In Hot Water Again

Mosha Byron had managed until recently to stay out of trouble ever since [illegible] 100 years old. Day over ninety. Of course, there was that little matter of a dice game when he was 104, but he managed to convince a magistrate that he had only paused on the vacant lot to watch the young fellows roll the cubes, and had done no gaming himself. He got out of that one.

Although he had been arrested several times, the only serious trouble he ever got into was just before his 100th birthday in 1942, when he was sentenced to an indefinite term in the penitentiary for practicing medicine illegally. It seems that he had been treating patients with a finger ring, sweet-scented gum and melted ice cream salt. When he got out, he was a centenarian and he felt it was time to turn over a new leaf. (He stopped trying to cure the ills of mankind—said he never got paid anything, anyway, writes M. C. Blackman, in the New York Herald Tribune).

But temper finally got the best of him and he got into an altercation with Mrs. Eva Rosen, who lives at the same address he does, 419 Brunswick Avenue, Brooklyn. She complained that he claimed to represent the landlord and tried to collect the rent. She said she didn't know him, and ordered him out, whereupon he used ungentlemanly language toward her. She had him arrested for disorderly conduct.

When he came up in Williamsburgh Magistrate Court, Magistrate Carl Balsam looked at the tall, thin, erect man. Mr. Byron wore a skullcap, because, he explained, one of his parents was Jewish. Sometimes he wears a fez, because the other was Egyptian.

"How old are you?" Magistrate Balsam asked.

"I'm 108," the defendant said firmly.

The magistrate looked skeptical. Accustomed to that, Mr. Byron said: "I can prove it. I have a birth certificate from Palestine, showing I was born there in 1842. And I have a letter from the late Rabbi Stephen S. Wise in 1944 congratulating me on my 102d birthday."

"Hmmm," said the magistrate. "To what do you attribute your great age?"

"I never married. I don't smoke, don't drink, never eat meat or butter."

"You think there is some connection between bachelorhood and longevity?"

"More than you think, your honor."

Magistrate paroled him for a hearing.

"And bring that birth certificate," he said.

The family physician should be consulted immediately if anyone contracts a cold which begins with chilliness, followed by fever and aching. It may not be just a "common" cold. It may be influenza or, in children, the beginning of one of the contagious diseases.

IN MEMORIAM

BASSIN: In loving memory of a most devoted husband, father, and grandfather, Solomon Bassin, who passed away on October 4, 1947.

Memories are treasures, none can feel;
Death leaves a scar that none can heal.
Silent thoughts bring many a tear,
For one we miss and love so dear.
Only those who have lost can tell,
The pain of parting without farewell.
The call was short, the shock severe,
To part with one we love so dear.

His loving wife, children, and grandchildren.

High Holy Day In Korea Under Field Combat Conditions

BY CHAPLAIN OSCAR M. LIPSCHUTZ, OF THE JEWISH WELFARE BOARD

We have just ended the Maariv (evening service) and our men have gathered in the mess hall for a snack of kosher food supplied by the National Jewish Welfare Board (JWB). They are eager to taste the gefilte fish, and in a few minutes they will have their chance. The lights are out except for a couple of Coleman lanterns, for we are under blackout restrictions. Snipers, patrols, we must be careful.

Our Rosh Hashonah services were well-attended, although we operated under field combat conditions. On the first day, several mud-covered men, clinging to their precious rifles, jumped off a truck in front of our chapel tent and proudly announced that they had "made it." They were afraid that they might be late for the services. Pfc. Holis (just promoted), loaded with a complete arsenal, down to grenades, had to be convinced that we were in a safe area. It is strange conducting a religious service, weapons next to each chair; — the concept is so paradoxical.

We were saved at the last minute when a lieutenant arrived. He was in the midst of a mission and took time off to sound the Shofar for us. A real expert from New York, Lt. Jack Arnold, of Rockaway Beach.

Men came in from units stationed all along the Naktong river line. The command had previously indicated that it doubted any men could be released in this area. The combat front is twelve miles ahead and on our flanks. Several times during the services we had to pause, as low-flying jets and Mustang fighters flew over for their strafing missions. The artillery heaved all through the day, but fortunately it was all "outgoing mail." Just before Musaf — the additional service — we received a message from front office that our two men in the Tank Battalion could not be released because the outfit was in action, but that after the encounter they would be given passes. We asked the courier to relay the New Year's greetings of the congregation to the men.

The men participated wholeheartedly and the responsive readings were enthusiastically led by Pvt. Arthur Cohen, of Pittsburgh (Hq. Co. — 2nd Inf. Div.) and Cpl. Hastings (Mobile Army Surgical Hospital). During the services we were amazed to see a large number of South Koreans gather around our chapel tent to peer in. Inquiry revealed that they had never witnessed a Jewish service. Their vocabulary does not have any word for "rabbi". Many had heard of Jews from missionaries but had never seen one. This was the first time, and they stood for hours, patiently watching. The sounding of the Shofar delighted them, and after the service they requested that it be sounded again and I had to explain very carefully that it was forbidden.

During the afternoon the 8055 Mobile Army Surgical Hospital pulled in the compound, travelling in convoy on its way to Taegu. Upon seeing our Jewish chaplain's flag flying from the tent mast several men hopped off the trucks and headed for our service. Having been on the road all day, and under alert, the men had been unable to attend any service. As soon as they washed up we held a special service for them. They were highly elated that even in Korea they were able to make the service. Pfc. Sheldon Schwartzberg, of Buffalo, N.Y., and his buddies were very happy when they pushed off later on route to Taegu. They promised to be back for Yom Kippur with God's help.

Two of our worshippers are most distinguished in this sector. They are Captain Zager and Captain Sloman. Both of them are very fine surgeons and many of our boys owe their lives to their skill and energy. Captain Bernard S. Zager is from Detroit and Captain Howard S. Sloman is from Norwalk, Conn. They came in and participated during rest periods between surgical cases. Their surgical caps looked like white skull-caps (yarmelkas) but it was their white, blood-spotted uniforms that gave them away.

So we passed our Rosh Hashanah in prayer, comradeship, and talk of home. A minyon in the land of Korea! The "chosen people" in the land of Chosen — (that's the way the word Korea is spelled and pronounced here) — even here, puns! We all long to return to our loved ones and enjoy God-given peace. That is our prayer for the New Year. The congregation sends best wishes for the New Year to the National Jewish Welfare Board. Thanks to you, our supplies and equipment were complete. As ever, Shalom!

Memo to HUNTERS...

Now is the time when all over Ontario sportsmen enjoy the thrills of hunting. In marshes, fields and forests, hunters make full use of our abundance of wild game.

Now, too, is the time to consider what this implies. If we think for a moment, we must realize that our supply of game is not inexhaustible. That's why we must observe the game regulations.

Game laws are designed to protect our sport—not to restrict it. If we all consider the importance of conservation at this season, and take only what we can use, we'll have better sport tomorrow.

Conserve today for tomorrow's holiday.

RULES GERMAN CITIES TO PAY FOR FORCED SALES

An American court ruled at Frankfurt, Germany, that German municipalities must reimburse Jews who were forced to "sell" their jewels, art objects and precious metals to municipal pawnshops under the Third Reich's anti-Semitic laws. It said the Nazi regime so rigged prices that this amounted to virtual confiscation of Jewish private wealth.

The ruling, delivered by the United States Court of Restitution Appeals, at Nurenberg, reversed and set aside the opinion of a German court. It opened the way for thousands of claims against German municipalities.

The test case was brought by a woman who said she had been compelled to surrender two silver candlesticks and five small silver bowls to the Nurenberg pawnshop.

In the German court, the counsel for the city of Nurenberg pleaded that the acts had been committed under the "superior rights" of the Third Reich, and that the present city government should not be held liable for the acts of a regime which has disappeared.

The magazine "Life and Health", an American publication, says insurance statistics show there is six times as much coronary (heart) disease among heavy smokers between the ages of 40 and 49 as there is among non-smokers.

MARRIAGES

REZNICK-LEVITES

The marriage of Rita, twin daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Levites, 4583 Jeanne Mance Street, to Saul Reznick, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Reznick, St. Denis Street, took place at the Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue on Sunday, September 17, at six o'clock, Dr. Solomon Frank, Rabbi, officiating, assisted by Cantor S. Kastner. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Of white satin, her Colonial-styled wedding gown was fashioned with a high lace yoke neckline; long, tightly-fitted sleeves; fitted bodice; and bouffant, hooped skirt, trimmed with seed pearl beads, and ruffled lace hemline. Her shirred bonnet-effect headdress was trimmed with seed pearl beads, and a fingertip-length tulle illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of orchids and stephanotis. Miss Sheila Levites, twin sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her pale yellow dress was designed with a satin bodice, and long, bouffant net skirt, embroidered with a gold-shaded floral leaf. She had a yellow cap and shoulder-length veil; and matching yellow mittens; and carried a bouquet of blue carnations, and tiny, yellow baby roses. Lois Wiener, niece of the bride, was flower girl, wearing a long yellow dotted Swiss dress, with blue smocking embroidery; and a wide, hooped skirt. She had a matching poke bonnet, and carried a white basket filled with baby red roses. Samuel Reznick, brother of the groom, was best man; and Allan Reznick, nephew of the groom, wearing a blue blazer jacket, and grey flannel trousers, was page boy. For the ceremony, the synagogue aisle was marked with lighted candelabra and white ribbon; and the hall, with white gladioli and ferns. Organ music was played for the wedding march; and "Thine Alone" was sung during the ceremony. Receiving two hundred guests at dinner, at the Synagogue, Mrs. Levites, mother of the bride, wore a cocoa-brown lace gown, over beige-satin, with a brown velvet cocktail hat; and a bronze-shaded corsage; and Mrs. Reznick, mother of the groom, wore a midnight-blue lace gown, with a royal-blue hat, with pink feather trimming; and a pink orchid corsage. For the reception, red baby roses and gladioli were used to decorate. The bride and groom spent their wedding trip in New York, the former travelling in a nigger-brown suit, with matching hat, and brown suede accessories; with a yellow pom-pom corsage. Present at the wedding were: Dr. and Mrs. I. Levites; Mr. and Mrs. H. Freedman, Ben Freedman, Miss Elinor Freedman, Miss Muriel Gould, of Boston, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. S. Coleman, Dr. H. Coleman, of Toronto, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Zablow, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mrs. N. Tompkin, of Providence, R. I.; Arthur Schreff, of New York; and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Shapiro, of Yarmouth, N.S.

PESNER-GOULD

The marriage of Miss Joan Sheila Gould, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gould, of Pasadena, Calif., formerly of Montreal, to Hershel Pesner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolphe Pesner, 12 Pagnuelo Avenue, Montreal, took place on Tuesday, August 29, at four o'clock, at Temple Emanu-El. Dr. Harry J. Stern, Rabbi, officiated. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white nylon marquisette gown, inset with lace medallions, and styled with a draped stole neckline, in fichu-arrangement, with an ankle-length skirt. Her headdress was trimmed with lace medallions and held a waist-length veil. She had long, nylon marquisette gloves, and carried a white bible, with mauve orchids, and stephanotis tied to the markers. Mrs. Edward Jacobs, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. In an ankle-length dress of copper-shaded lace, run with silver-metallic thread, she had a matching Juliet cap, and carried a cluster of orange-shaded gladioli. Barton Goldenberg, of Philadelphia, Pa., was best man. The ushers were Stephen and Kenneth Asch, cousins of the bride; and Lionel Pesner, cousin of the groom. Mrs. M. N. Fineberg played the wedding music; and a soloist sang during the service. At the buffet tea reception in the Temple Community Hall, two hundred guests were received. The bride's table was arranged with white carnations, and Tea roses. Receiving, Mrs. Gould, mother of the bride, wore a cinnamon-beige crepe ankle-length gown, trimmed with cut-steel beading at the waist; with a matching hat, and corsage of flame-colored gladioli; and Mrs. Pesner, mother of the groom, wore an ankle-length gown, designed with a beige velvet bodice, and beige tulle skirt, with matching velvet applique adornment, a matching velvet hat, and a tangerine-shaded gladioli corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Pesner motored to California for their wedding trip, the bride travelling in a three-piece suit of henna-shaded Scotch tweed, with brown velvet accessories. They will take up residence on Coronet Avenue about October 10. The groom is a B.Sc. graduate, in agriculture, of the University of New Hampshire. Mrs. Elliott B. Gross, and daughters, Julie and Nancy, of Long Island, N.Y., sister, and nieces of the bride; Mrs. Sol. Pomerantz, of New York, aunt of the bride; Dr. and Mrs. Dennis Barkoff and children, Miriam and Joel, of Windsor, Ont., cousins of the groom; Mrs. Frank Goldenberg, and Mr. and Mrs. Barton Goldenberg, of Philadelphia, Pa., were present at the wedding.

Wise Free Synagogue, 30 West Sixty-eighth Street, New York, to pay last tribute to City Magistrate Morris Rothenberg, general chairman of the United Palestine Appeal, who died at the Biltmore Hotel of a heart attack. Magistrate Rothenberg, who was stricken after a meeting of the National Executive Committee of the Zionist Organization of America, was 65 years old and had resided at 110 West Fifty-fifth Street.

Among those present were scores of city officials, headed by Acting Mayor Impellitteri, and ranking leaders of the Zionist movement. An Israeli delegation was headed by Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett, Aubrey Eban, Ambassador to the United States, and Arthur Lourie, consul general in New York.

The Rev. Dr. Israel Goldstein of Temple Bnai Jeshurun eulogized Mr. Rothenberg as a Zionist leader possessed with "a clear head, an uncommon endowment of common sense, rapier thrusts of logic, an abounding wit and humor and a personal charm which gained friendship even where it did not secure adherence."

"He was one of the architects of American Zionism and one of the foremost of the builders of Zion," Rabbi Goldstein said. "The range of his services was encyclopedic. There was no segment of the Zionist sphere which his hand did not strengthen and which his mind did not illumine."

The Conservative service was conducted by Rabbi Edward E. Klein, of the Free Synagogue. He read Whittier's "Snowbound." Burial was in Westchester Hills Cemetery, Hastings-on-Hudson, N.Y.

Chief Magistrate John M. Murtagh headed the group of city magistrates attending the service. Also in attendance were Mendel Fisher, executive director of the Jewish National Fund, and Dr. Harris J. Levine, its president; Judge Louis Levanthal, of Philadelphia, former president of the Z.O.A.; Ellis Rudinsky, executive director of the United Palestine Appeal; and Dr. Emanuel Neumann, another former president of the Z. O. A.; Henry Morgenthau Jr., general chairman of the United Jewish Appeal; Rabbi Irving Miller, president of the American Jewish Congress; Benjamin G. Browdy, president of the Z. O. A., and Rudolf Sonnenborn, chairman of the administrative council of the Z. O. A.

Says Israel Expects Billions

Dr. Nahum Goldmann, chairman of the American Section of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, asserted in New York that Israel's severe economic problems must be reckoned with "not in terms of millions of dollars but in billions." He called on a unified American Zionist movement to lead all segments of American Jewish life to aid the Israeli Government in solving its problems.

Speaking at the Agency's offices, 16 East Sixty-sixth Street, he maintained that these "billions of dollars" would have to determine "the thinking of American Jews in trying to take a hand in making Israel an economically going concern and enable it to save the Jews in Eastern Europe and in the Moslem countries."

Dr. Goldmann, who recently returned from Jerusalem, called attention to the conference of Jewish leaders at Washington next month to implement the decisions made at the recent meeting of Americans with Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion and others of the Israeli Government.

Recalling agreement at Jerusalem that gift dollars for Israel "will remain for a long time to come the basis of the program of help, and primarily through the United Jewish Appeal," he continued: "The whole approach of American Jews to the problem of Israel has to be changed radically. If the Zionist movement intends to continue playing a leading role in the new phase, it will have to prove it by delivering the goods and leading Jews all over the world for this unparalleled mobilization of their resources to help Israel."

Dr. Goldmann suggested that the American Government give financial aid to Israel, stressing that Israel's people adhere to the principles of Western democracies, "and that the policy of Israel is based on the principle of complete loyalty to the United Nations and its decisions."

(W.J.A.) Jews in Parur (Southern India) are "vainly longing to emigrate to Israel", but cannot do so without help from outside. This is stated in an appeal addressed to the World Jewish Congress office in London by the Secretary of the Jewish Welfare Society of Parur. "Our requests for the last nine months were not heard", the message says. "In Parur there are about 350 souls, including women and children. We are fully confident that we may rely on your good offices and that you will use your influence to help us in getting passage to Israel in the immediate future".

Jurists See Children Changed By School That Cures "Delinquents"

Roles were reversed as children court judges were "entertained" at Hawthorne-Cedar Knolls School, internationally famous treatment center for emotionally disturbed and rebellious children which is maintained at Hawthorne, N. Y., by the Jewish Board of Guardians.

They were curious about what this institution had that made it a leader in the field. They saw troubled children whom they had committed here living a happier community life and becoming aware by means of psychiatric help of the inner conflicts that had tortured them, says the New York Times.

There was no doubt that the jurists were "conquered." Judge John Warren Hill, presiding justice of the Domestic Relations Court, expressed wonder at the happiness on so many of the faces of the 200 boys and girls who took part in the day-long ceremonies. He praised "the beautiful grounds, the thoughtful staff and the good care given the children" and said "we know where we can send them with confidence."

"Are we going to give the boys and girls any support after they leave here — any social vitamins — to prop them up when they get back to the environment that damned them in the first place?" he asked.

It costs the city $1,500 to keep a child two years in an institution and this investment is lost when after-care is not provided, he asserted.

Mrs. Sidney C. Borg, president of the Jewish Board of Guardians which maintains Hawthorne, reported that the partnership between the courts and Jewish board of Guardians had resulted in an 80 per cent decline in the number of Jewish children coming before the courts in the last twenty years.

She pointed out that it was at the instigation of the children's court judges that Hawthorne was established. She said also that the change in the philosophy of child reclamation from one of rigidity and strict discipline to one of faith and guidance was also the result in large part of the understanding of the judges.

Hershel Alt, formerly of Toronto, Ont., of the Jewish Board of Guardians, said that of the school's population only 50 per cent could be called delinquents in the old sense, and that most of them had severe personality disorders. The remainder were children suffering from psychiatric disorders.

He explained that the concept of delinquency had been replaced by that of emotional disturbance and that the School's planning was in accordance with the new concept.

Harold L. Beebe, chairman of the school and vice-president of the Jewish Board of Guardians, said that costs had doubled since 1941. The municipality meets a third of the per capita cost and the remainder comes from the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies and other sources that support the Jewish Board of Guardians, he added.

In a case conference that described the treatment of one of the children who in two years had shown "slow but remarkable progress," Norman V. Lourie, director of the school, explained that an individual treatment plan based on psychiatric and psychological studies was prepared for each child there. Every experience of the child, including his cottage life, classroom recreation and work, is considered part of his therapy.

"We give direct psychotherapeutic treatment in our clinic, which uses its knowledge to interpret the practical needs of children to the cottage parent, teacher, farmer, plumber, electrician, kitchen personnel — in fact, all of the school staff who come in contact with the children," he said.

Probation officers and court workers attended the conference as well as the institution's board members. In addition to the jurists from New York, Judge George W. Smythe of Westchester's children court was present.

Commentaries

By Dr. Harry J. Stern, Rabbi

In the Beginning

What is the origin of the earth and life on earth? This question man has grappled with ever since he began to think. The first chapter of Genesis is the Jewish story of how life might have originated. Most ancient peoples have had their own traditions about the beginning of things. The Babylonians, the Romans, the Phoenicians and the Greeks developed their own stories of creation. For them usually the gods emerged from pre-existent chaos. But the Jewish story differs from all other accounts in that it tells of One God as the creator of the world, not by chance but by will. The Jewish story is a poetic description of creation and rather emphasizes how man first began to think as to the origin of life on earth. The author was indeed a great genius and this story of creation contains some of the most fundamental beliefs of Judaism.

The story of creation is not in conflict with evolution. Nor need we try to harmonize this story of a six-day process and declare these six days to be ages and thus say that it is not in conflict with science. The Bible, to begin with, is not a text book on science. It is a book of ethical teachings containing stories, parables, poetry, history and legend. Primarily it is the spiritual biography of the Jewish people in its search for God.

The Bible, being a human collection of books which took about a thousand years in its development, is therefore not infallible. Divine truth which it contains is always the same; the form in which it is represented differs because the medium is human. The Bible suffered very often at the hands of its friends because they made of it a text book of science, a fetish, and what not!

Because of misinterpretations the Bible has often been misused. Thus when Christopher Columbus sought to discover a Western passage to the Indies, was he not bitterly opposed by the theologians? They took that beautiful poetic 19th Psalm and made geography out of it. Harvey, in 1698, proclaims his epoch-making discovery of the circulation of the blood. For this, churchianity attacked him. Thus the human mind, thinking about anatomy, misused the Bible as its final appeal. In 1798 Jenner made the remarkable discovery of vaccination as a defense against small-pox. Immediately the Bible was improperly used to attack the scientific advance. Was not man made in the image of God? We dare not scratch or disfigure the human body! Theologians, too, objected to anaesthetics for expectant mothers because of the curse, "In pain shall thou bring forth children."

Well do we recall that Servitus was burned at the stake in Geneva in 1553 by the Protestant Calvin, because Servitus was found guilty of heresy, and one of the charges against him was that he believed the statement of a Greek geographer that Judea was a barren country. And do not the Scriptures tell us that Judea was a "land flowing with milk and honey?" And the fundamentalists of the synagogue may be reminded also, that they excommunicated a Spinoza because he dared to be liberal and interpret Scripture in his own light.

There is nothing un-Jewish in the evolutionary concept which teaches that man arose from a simple origin. How all the more remarkable is the concept of the One God as the creator who placed the potentialities in a jellyfish so that in the process of time out of that jellyfish the world was blessed with a Moses, an Isaiah, a Shakespeare, and an Einstein. In fact evolution confirms the story of Genesis. What better story have we as to the origin of life than that set forth in Holy Scriptures? The scientists stand baffled at the mystery of life and the mystery of death. With all our boast of knowledge man cannot even create a blade of grass, a simple flower. Indeed, the greatest of scientists of today posit an Intelligence at work in the universe.

The second great doctrine which the first chapter of Genesis proclaims is that man constitutes the crown of creation. As the Psalmist speaks, "Thou hast made him a little lower than the angels and crowned him with glory and honor." Man, as the Midrash points out, is both a child of heaven and a child of dust. He differs from all other creatures in that he is endowed with a mind and a soul. Hence, man is to "subdue the earth" by the power of his soul. Alas, too often, because man forgot his soul, the earth has been converted into a jungle and inhumanity has reigned supreme. The world at present is in danger of being converted into chaos and void unless man rediscovers his soul and his God-given qualities.

Still another great doctrine which the first chapter of Genesis proclaims is that of the goodness of the world. Our world is indeed a goodly habitation. Even the sorrows and the disappointments constitute helpful factors in the pattern of life. Because man has to struggle with evil and overcome evil therein lies the opportunity for the building of character. Even death is good, say the rabbis, and is to be looked upon as part of the life process formulated in the poetic story of creation.

Last but not least, the great Jewish doctrine of the Sabbath, "the queen of days", is formulated in the Genesis story. Man, through a Sabbath, thus consecrates work and is ever to regard work as one of the choicest blessings in life. It is only he who is a slave to his work who knows not the delight of a Sabbath for he has not the discipline of Sabbath observance and reduces his whole life to a mechanical state and an animal existence when neither in a home, church or synagogue he observes a day of rest and a day for spiritual uplift.

"In the beginning God created". This, according to the French scientist, Cuvier, is the greatest sentence which has ever been written. The world and civilization can only have meaning when we recognize the glory of the everlasting Lord, the God of Eternity, the Creator of the Universe.

Oil Agreements Cut Foreign Exchange Needs

Oil agreements signed recently in Washington and London that are enabling the reopening of the Haifa refineries are cutting Israel's foreign exchange needs for oil supplies by $3,500,000, David Horowitz, economic adviser to the Government, successfully negotiated the agreements.

The Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, which controls the Haifa refineries, has agreed to refine 800,000 tons, representing Israel's internal needs, but not refining for re-export because it would not pay financially.

British oil companies under contract to supply 65 per cent of Israel's needs, and United States companies supplying the balance, have signed agreements with Mr. Horowitz undertaking to ship crude instead of refined oil.

In addition to saving the hard-pressed Israeli Government's foreign exchange, reopening the refineries is creating productive employment for 700 Israeli workers and supplying chemical by-products that the Government intends to exploit to develop new industries, Mr. Horowitz said.

sentee owners. Many Americans have "blocked" accounts in Israel and are leaving their money lie idle, Dr. Grunwald said. They could put their funds into savings accounts through these banks, drawing up to 2% interest, or could invest them in debentures of the Mortgage & Savings Bank and receive 5% interest. By putting their funds into such interest-bearing activities, they are released for use within the country in productive investments and loans.

The Palestine Economic Corporation has been actively engaged in the economic development of Israel for a quarter of a century and is the major channel through which private American investment capital is being directed into Israel's economy. In addition to developing its banking interests, PEC has pioneered in the establishment of basic industry, a phase of its work receiving more and more stress at the present. It is active in the following fields; chemicals, fertilizers, citrus by-products, textiles, plastics, precision instruments, tourist accommodations, land development, building, shipping, and commerce. Senator Herbert H. Lehman is honorary chairman of the Corporation.

During the second World War, she was instrumental in transferring the defunct Yeshiva of Telshe, Lithuania, then overrun by the Germans, to Cleveland, says the New York Times. At her death she was honorary president of the Cleveland institution. For many years she was prominent in Hadassah, also taking a continuing interest in Jewish education throughout the world.
